of the United States Armed Forces

REMEMBRANCE & RECOGNITION

The Roll of Honor Foundation is a 501(c)3 nonprofit charity with the mission of honoring the military service of the men and women of America's Armed Forces, educating the public about their legacy and encouraging public service among future generations.

The Foundation provides a free online registry of U.S. service men and women (www.rollofhonor.org), which allows current and former military members and their families to display their military experience, records of achievement and photos in a digital visual biography, connected to the most popular social media platforms.

Its goal is to document the entire U.S. military service history - from Lexington and Concord to today's deployments - through the individual histories of America's military. Almost 3 million service members are currently in the Roll of Honor and new profiles are being added daily.

The Roll of Honor website displays profiles of men and women of the U.S. Armed Services.

Our highly interactive site allows for families and others to learn more about their Veteran's military service through individual pages that depict awards, units, training, engagements and other elements in a vivid graphic profile.

INSIGHT & INSPIRATION

The Roll of Honor provides an educational experience for students and families. As visitors navigate through the Roll of Honor, they will become more familiar with the military history of their country. Individual service men and women can see their service in the context of a larger story of America's defense of her freedoms.

Families can feel pride in knowing that their relatives who served had important parts to play in America's history. Young men and women considering national service could see the military as a viable option to contribute to their country in a meaningful way.

Military occupation specialties are detailed so children and other family members can understand their relatives' and ancestors' responsibilities, as well as suggest possible career opportunities for young people considering military careers.

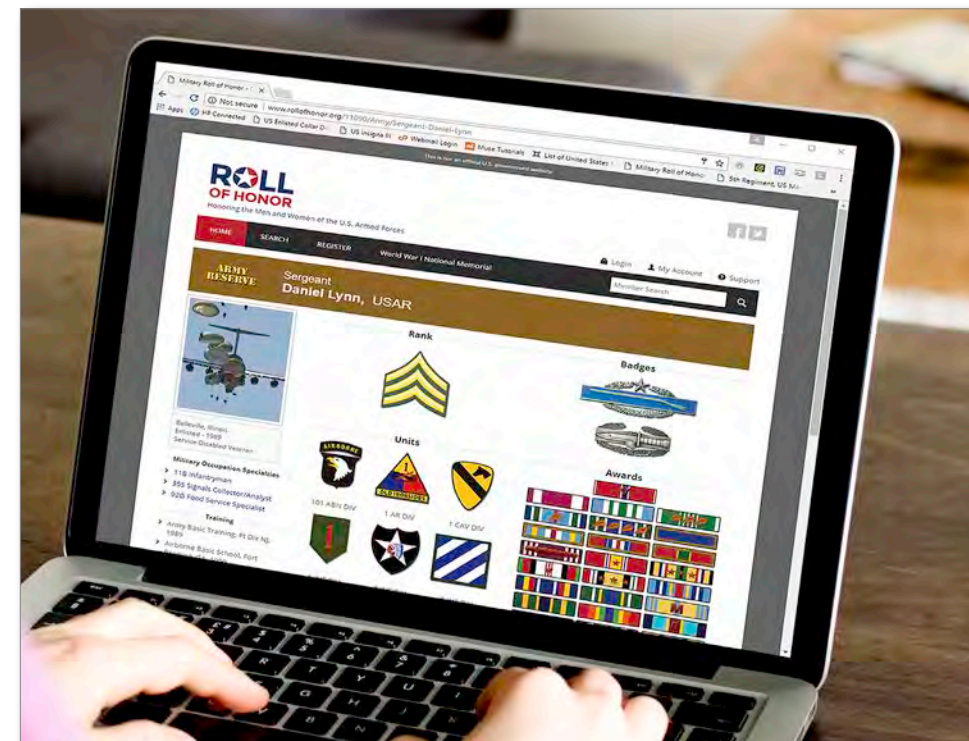

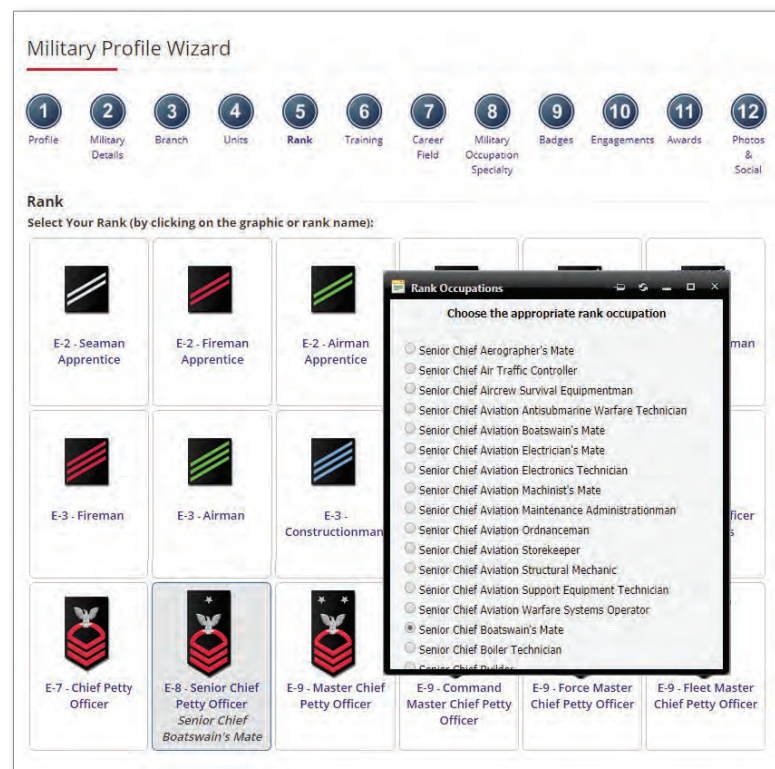

Our extensive research over the last ten years has built a library of listings and graphics that detail the entire historical U.S. military experience, so that individual profiles can be created to accurately portray a Veteran's personal history.

The Roll of Honor Foundation has been licensed by the U.S. Department of Defense for use of registered military images (unit, insignia and other military symbols).

In addition, because of the important concerns of many Veterans regarding "stolen valor," there are a number of safeguards built into the system that monitor award and badge selections, making sure registrants accurately display their records, protecting the integrity of the Roll of Honor and reducing misrepresentation of awards or badges.

Interacting with the user-friendly online wizard, registrants can select from appropriate menus of elements to build personalized profiles of their own or family members' military service.

Wizard selections include awards (U.S. military, foreign and state), badges, ranks and ratings, military deployments, cemeteries, units, advanced training schools and courses, ROTC units, career fields and military occupation specialties.

The Roll of Honor Foundation does not charge Veterans or their families any fees to participate, register or view profiles, and it provides continual customer service to support registrants in locating their family members' or ancestors' military records to accurately display their military service. The public are invited to view public profiles at no charge.

By clicking on many interactive elements of a Member's web page (awards, badges, military occupation specialties, units, combat engagements, etc.), they can get a more complete picture of a member's military service.

The Roll of Honor connects members to their social media networks (Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn, etc.), and enables them to link to their Roll of Honor profile directly from within their own social media pages. Members can also reach out to fellow unit members through the Roll of Honor's permission-based message forwarding system. The Foundation also encourages members to upload photographs, letters and videos from their service or those of their military relatives.

This project is constantly evolving, expanding more broadly and digging deeper into the vast U.S. military experience. Through member contributions and extensive research, the Roll of Honor continues to include more elements of the American military service - all five uniformed services, from the Revolutionary War to current engagements, reflective of all the historic changes and modifications throughout our military history.

The Roll of Honor Foundation is building a comprehensive history of America's military through the individual profiles of its military service men and women.

By researching genealogy sources, military cemetery lists, online archive searches, and other records, the Roll of Honor aims to eventually recognize as many as possible of the 42 million American men and women who served in our history from 1776 to today.

This is a huge undertaking, but with the support of the right partners, new technology tools, and the dedication of a committed staff, this is an achievable goal.

Honoring the men and women of the U.S. Armed Services throughout our history.

World War I (1917-1918)
The 3rd Division was born at Camp Green, North Carolina on November 21, 1917. The U.S. had been at war with imperial Germany and allies since April 6, 1917. The Division arrived in France in April 1918 at the beginning of the last series of German offensives designed to end the war. By May of 1918 the French had been pushed back to within 50 miles of Paris.

The 7th Machine Gun Battalion of the 3rd Division rushed to Château-Thierry and retreating French troops and held the Germans back at the Marne River. The rest of the division was alerted by the French Command until brought back together under the Command of General Joseph Dickman and by July 18, 1918 they took the brunt of what was to be the last German offensive of the war.

Medal of Honor

Robert L Howard
Medal of Honor

The President of the United States of America, in the name of Congress, takes pleasure in presenting the Medal of Honor to First Lieutenant (Infantry), then Sergeant First Class Robert Lewis Howard, United States Army, for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty while serving with 5th Special Forces Group (Airborne), 1st Special Forces, in action against enemy aggressor forces at Republic of Vietnam, on 30 December 1968.

First Lieutenant Howard, distinguished himself while serving as platoon sergeant of an American-Vietnamese platoon which was on a mission to rescue a missing American soldier in enemy controlled territory. The platoon had left its helicopter landing zone and was moving out on its mission when it was attacked by an estimated two-company force. During the initial engagement, First Lieutenant Howard was wounded and his weapon destroyed by a grenade explosion. First Lieutenant Howard saw his platoon leader had been wounded seriously and was exposed to fire. Although unable to walk, and weaponless, First Lieutenant Howard unhesitatingly crawled through a hail of fire to retrieve his wounded leader.

As First Lieutenant Howard was administering first aid and removing the officer's equipment, an enemy bullet struck one of the ammunition pouches on the lieutenant's belt, detonating several magazines of ammunition. First Lieutenant Howard momentarily sought cover and then realizing that he must rejoin the platoon, which had been disorganized by the enemy attack, he again began dragging the seriously wounded officer toward the platoon area. Through his outstanding example of indomitable courage and bravery, First Lieutenant Howard was able to rally the platoon into an organized defense force.

With complete disregard for his safety, First Lieutenant Howard crawled from position to position, administering first aid to the wounded, giving encouragement to the defenders and directing their fire on the encircling enemy. For 3-1/2 hours First Lieutenant Howard's small force and supporting aircraft successfully repulsed enemy attacks and finally were in sufficient control to permit the landing of rescue helicopters.

First Lieutenant Howard personally supervised the loading of his men and did not leave the bullet-swept landing zone until all were aboard safely. First Lieutenant Howard's gallantry in action, his complete devotion to the welfare of his men at the risk of his life were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit on himself, his unit, and the United States Army.

Silver Star

Robert L Howard
Silver Star

The President of the United States of America, authorized by Act of Congress, July 9, 1918, takes pleasure in presenting the Silver Star to Sergeant First Class Robert Lewis Howard, United States Army, for gallantry in action while engaged in military operations involving conflict with an armed hostile force in the Republic of Vietnam, while serving with Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 5th Special Forces Group (Airborne), 1st Special Forces.

Sergeant First Class Howard distinguished himself by exceptionally valorous actions from 12 to 20 November 1968, during an operation deep within enemy-held territory. As his platoon was being inserted into the area, it came under heavy fire from all directions. Sergeant Howard leaped from his helicopter before it touched down and began to return fire, providing protection for his men while they dismounted and moved safely of the landing zone. Seeing two enemy soldiers in a wood line, he charged their position and killed them both. When the unit was attacked by a company-size force on the night of 18 November, he went to each platoon member, encouraging them and directing their fire while completely exposing himself to the communist barrage.

Two days later while Sergeant Howard was leading the point element, the platoon was ambushed by an estimated two North Vietnamese Army companies. He skillfully maneuvered his men so that the enemy was caught in a deadly crossfire and the ambush was broken.

The following day Sergeant Howard had again taken the point element when he observed an estimated battalion-size ambush. Although wounded in the initial exchange of fire, he exposed himself to the aggressors to place effective fire on them and enable his platoon to take cover. Moving from position to position, he administered first aid to the wounded and set up a landing zone so that they could be evacuated. As the first ambulance helicopter came in, it was struck by hostile machine gun fire and burst into flames. Sergeant Howard, although wounded a second time, ran one hundred and fifty meters to where the ship had crashed and rescued a trapped pilot from the blazing wreckage. Once the entire crew was free from the aircraft, he led them back to the platoon while providing covering fire. Three hours later another helicopter succeeded in landing and the casualties were evacuated, but Sergeant Howard refused to leave. The next morning, he saw three North Vietnamese soldiers maneuvering towards his element and immediately opened fire, killing them.

Alexander Archer Vandegrift
Navy Distinguished Service Medal

The President of the United States of America takes pleasure in presenting the Navy Distinguished Service Medal to General Alexander Archer Vandegrift, United States Marine Corps, for exceptionally meritorious service to the Government of the United States in a duty of great responsibility as Commandant of the United States Marine Corps from 1 January 1944, to 30 June 1946.

General Vandegrift exercised extraordinary foresight, initiative and judgment in directing the policies and organization of the Corps, and in continuing without interruption the broad program of expansion and preparation for battle of this specialized branch of our military service.

Analyzing the particularized problems incident to Marine Corps participation in large scale joint operations, he successfully carried out a pre-established program for the procurement and training of personnel, determined the design, types and amounts of combat equipment required by his assault and occupation troops to break the resistance of a determined and deeply entrenched enemy wherever encountered, and effected expedient methods of distribution which made possible the steady flow of men and materials in support of the continued offensive operations of his fighting forces in widespread areas. A leader of uncompromising integrity and indefatigable energies, General Vandegrift upheld and quickened the incomparable esprit de corps of his command and developed a level of combat efficiency to the end that the enemy was overwhelmed by the Marines wherever met.

THE WAR THAT CHANGED THE WORLD

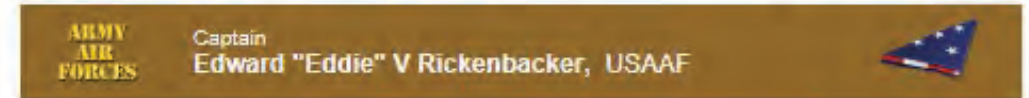

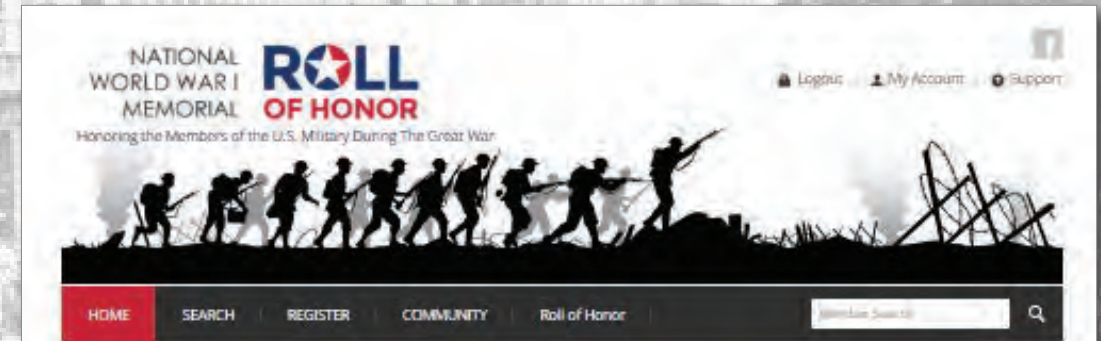

In partnership with the U.S. World War One Centennial Commission, we have developed a special edition of the Roll of Honor, commemorating the 100th anniversary of World War One. More than 350,000 profiles have already been created and we will include up to 4 million U.S. military personnel who participated in the "Forgotten War." This virtual memorial is hosted on the official Centennial website and will be an essential part of the new National World War One Memorial that is being built in the Nation's Capital.

NEXT STEPS

The Roll of Honor Foundation is beginning to solicit foundation and corporate funding to support the extensive research, data management, graphics and customer service necessary to make the Roll of Honor a success. Various branding opportunities can be provided to sponsors throughout the website and the various initiatives we are developing to increase positive awareness about America's Veterans and the challenges they faced in defending America.

The Foundation will identify ways that all Americans can show their appreciation for the service of these men and women who have served the nation. We will also create initiatives that challenge young Americans to serve their country, either in the military or other public service.

1. Within the next year, we intend to create a series of grade-based lesson plans that include having students interact with the Roll of Honor to understand America's history and their own personal connection with their ancestors and neighbors who served in the U.S. military.
2. We also plan to recruit, train, equip and mentor military spouses to fill most of our required new positions of data and graphic assistance, allowing them the flexibility to work at home while caring for their families. This will provide extra income for their households, and assist them in building professional skills and work experience for future job opportunities.
3. Our next projects will be special Roll of Honor websites to honor Veterans of the Vietnam War, World War II, Korean War, Persian Gulf Wars and Iraq/Afghanistan. We are seeking national sponsors to assist us in deepening our capabilities to accomplish these goals.
